

It's a Fact: The admired skills of the world's most successful motorsports teams; Speed - Agility and Flawless Execution, mirror the skills necessary for the successful organizations of the future.

- Entrepreneur & Businessman
- Television & Radio Personality
- Derek competed in the Formula One world championship

Derek competed against world champions - raced for some of the world's most successful teams - won all over the world - lived in Monte Carlo - dined with Royalty - and was almost killed three times. His experiences are breathtaking.

With his native Irish wit, he presents powerful analogies with straight forward and fascinating details, delivered with the same energy and humor that has made him one of television's most popular sports commentators and a world class speaker.

Drawing on his original research with some of the legends of professional auto racing including Roger Penske, Mario Andretti and A.J. Foyt - Derek discusses why some individuals and teams fail to reach their potential while others become successful and famous.

This original research produced a program that has entertained and influenced audiences across the globe.
